JOEL CREASEY

“Creasey is an unstoppable force and the crown prince of Aussie comedy.” - The Daily Telegraph

At just 27 years old, Joel Creasey is one of Australia's most-popular, acclaimed and charmingly controversial stand-up comedians.

Joel has just penned and published his first memoir through Simon & Schuster, “THIRSTY: Confessions of a Fame Whore”, which he has dedicated to the late Joan Rivers. Like Joel, Thirsty is acerbically funny, and full of his most personal, hilarious, joyous, heartbreaking, outrageous, ridiculous and scandalous stories.

Starting stand up at only 15 years old, Joel has harnessed his outrageous wit, sass and unrivalled story telling abilities to cement himself as Australia's undisputed 'Crown Prince of Comedy' and one of the most-sought after and hottest comedians in the world. Every year Joel's live show audiences grow, as punters in the know flock for an hour of no-holds-barred belly laughs. He has cemented a reputation for slicing, dicing and smashing through celebrity and pop culture, and himself, with unflinching candour and brutal home truths. Creasey cuts through celebrity spin to tell you how it is with charm, irreverence and the ultimate payoff of epic laughs. 2017 is no exception as Joel even had to add new shows in each city of his national sell-out tour aptly entitled 'Joel Creasey – Poser'.

Next year Joel will again tour nationally with his new show 'Blonde Bombshell'. He will kick off the year's festival tour with the honour of being appointed the official Ambassador for the Adelaide Fringe Festival 2018, with over 5,000 artists from around the country and world ascending on Adelaide for this prestigious festival.

A self-described shameless "fame whore", Joel has become a television staple and this year landed the much coveted role as new co-host of SBS's Eurovision Song Contest, alongside Myf Warhurst. This global event is described as the Olympics of song contests. He also hosted the television broadcast of the glittering explosion that is the 2017 Sydney Gay and Lesbian Mardi Gras parade.

Joel hosted this year's televised series of Sydney's 'Comedy Cracker Festival' for Foxtel. He has also hosted Network Ten's Just For Laughs specials, highlighting the best of the Just For Laughs Comedy Festival in Montreal, where he has worked alongside such icons as Neil Patrick Harris, Sir Patrick Stewart, Jane Lynch, Ellie Kemper, Carrie Fisher, Alan Carr, Jeff Goldblum and Alan Cumming. Joel has also been a featured comedian at Montreal's Just For Laughs festival for the past 3 years having twice now been named as "one of the highlights" of the festival by the Montreal Gazette. Joel also featured with his friend and fellow comedian, Rhys Nicholson, in the very raw and highly acclaimed comedy documentary for ABC, Gaycrashers, and had his own stand up special on ABC2. As well as hosting the prestigious Melbourne International Comedy Festival Gala, Joel has made regular appearances on The Project, hosting their 2016 ARIA Awards red carpet coverage, The Great Debate, Comedy Up Late, 20 to 1, Have You Been Paying Attention, The Big Music Quiz, Studio Ten, A League of Their Own, Dirty Laundry, How Not to Behave and It's a Date, to name but a few.

This year Joel also debuted in his first acting role alongside a stellar cast including Magda Szubanski, Lucy Durack and Catherine McClements in Channel 10's new Comedy Drama 'Sisters'.

Most recently Joel was crowned Comedian of the Year at the GQ Men of the Year Awards, after losing on an episode of All Star Family Feud. Swings and roundabouts! This year he was also selected to be in Cosmopolitan's inaugural Rainbow List as one of their top 50 most influential LGBTQI voices and recently became Ambassador to Skyy Vodka's #CheerstoEquality campaign.

Internationally, Joel made his UK television debut on the ratings juggernaut A League of Their Own hosted by James Corden on Sky TV. And in the US Joel has been seen on multiple comedy specials and on Playboy bunny Kendra Wilkinson's reality show Kendra as her wise-cracking Aussie mate.

Joel won a legion of new fans in 2015 when he appeared in people's living rooms 5 nights a week as a contestant and a firm favourite on the first Australian season of Network Ten's I'm a Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here! From the hundreds of thousands of votes Joel accrued, he helped raise much needed funds for his charity - Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation - a cause close to his heart with his sister being a type 1 diabetic.

So popular was his appearance that he returned in 2016 to host the companion show I'm a Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here Now! broadcast live five nights a week from the depths of the African jungle.
